*A very amazing publication with perfect and lucid information. We have read through and that i am certain that i will planning to study once more yet again in the future. You will not really feel monotony at anytime of the time (that's what catalogues are for about should you question me).

Someone has said, perhaps too truthfully, that a College Glee Club is the same the world over. Granting the statement, it is equally true that such an organization never fails to attract and entertain those who sympathize with college men and their ways. For the student himself no activity affords more intimate fellowship nor more varied experiences than do the Musical Clubs. In the literary colleges where considerable time is allotted to activities outside the curriculum the Musical Clubs assume a position of great importance. The scholastic requirements of Technology, however, are so exacting that less time can be devoted to such an interest; strange as it may seem, this appears merely to have intensified the spirit and enthusiasm so noticeable in the work of the clubs. The Technology Combined Musical Clubs had their beginning in 1884, since which time they have flourished and grown to the present membership of sixty. The Glee Club is the largest organization with thirty members, the Mandolin Club a close second with twenty-five, while the Banjo Club usually numbers about ten. It will be noted that some men perform on two clubs. In concerts the clubs render a program comprising instrumental and vocal selections interspersed with readings and solos. A unique feature of this year's entertainments will be a quartet playing on Hawaiian eukeleles. Tradition has it that two performances be given annually for the social diversion of Technology men. The linter...
